All locations offer a collection container in the front lobby area.

Flushing unwanted or expired medications down the drain and throwing them into the trash introduces these drugs into the environment. Wastewater treatment centers are not designed to remove pharmaceutical chemicals resulting in discharges into local streams, rivers and lakes. The discharges can pose threats to human health. Pets and children can be accidentally poisoned and some types of medication can be targeted by criminals increasing the danger of illegal use and theft.

Protect your family, yourself and the environment by properly disposing unwanted or expired medication. If further information is needed, contact your local law enforcement office, the Northeast IN Solid Waste District 800-777-5462 or Todd Sattison at the Auburn Water Pollution Control 260-925-1714.
